100 Dollars Reward.

I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the sirname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, a smooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va. ; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number ; among them—a new bear-skin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing ; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

I will give the above reward for apprehending and securing said fellow so that I get him again, and reasonable charges if brought home.

Notice,

To Wheelwrights, Blacksmiths, Tanners, Harness-Makers, Saddlers, Hatters, &c.

BELIEVING as I do, that PROVIDENCE, at Fairfax Court-House, would be a suitable situation for mechanics of the above description, I offer to such, lots in that village for sale, on ground rent for ever—will build and furnish suitable houses and rent to them, or furnish brick to them to build with ; and invite any who feel disposed to settle there, for the purpose of carrying on their respective trades to advantage, to come and view the situation. It is a very public place, the centre of the county, where the superior and county courts are held. The Little River Turnpike Road passes through this little town from Alexandria westward, and where all the public meetings for the county, &c. are held ; and where trades of the aforesaid description being carried on, would meet with great encouragement, and be a public convenience to the country around. No situation can be more healthy—good water, and fire wood cheap. Mechanics of the above description must generally depend on the country people, farmers, &c. to be their customers. Here they would be in a convenient situation for all the purposes. I invite a call, and view for themselves. I would also furnish lots adjacent, from one to five acres each, for cultivation, pasture, &c. on moderate terms ; all of which can be shown, and terms made known, on application to RICH'D. RAN away on the 28th of April, from the farm of the subscriber, in Dogue Neck, Fairfax Co. Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much confusion, and replies almost unintelligibly : had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I will give twenty dollars, if taken in the county of Fairfax, or district of Columbia ; if beyond that distance, the above reward, provided he is secured in jail so that I get him again. Missouri and Illinois Bounty Lands

THE subscriber has now for sale a number of the most valuable tracts, in both of those rich and improving bodies of lands, and can supply applicants with any number they may wish, and in any part of either territory. Every person who visits the Western Country, particularly those who intend settling there, should take with them a few quarter sections of those lands ; every man who has a young and growing family, and can spare a few hundred dollars, should not miss the present opportunity of getting some of those lands ; as it will insure to his children a greater certainty than any other investment he can possibly make for their benefit.—From the immense emigration to both Illinois and Missouri, particularly to the military lands, it is certain there must be a great rise in the price very soon, and those who miss the present opportunity, will never again have a chance to do so well. The patents will be sold very low, for cash, good notes or bonds at short dates, or bank stock in the Central Bank of Georgetown and Washington, and the Farmers and Mechanics' Bank of Georgetown. As I am a large dealer in Military Bounty Lands, I can supply any number that may be required.

THE YELLOW STONE EXPEDITION.

Among the arrangements of the general government, now carrying into effect by the executive, there is none of greater importance, in its various relations to the United States, than the Yellow Stone Expedition, which combines the exploring of numerous rivers and water courses, not yet ascertained—the progress of settlement, and facility of intercourse with the fertile region of the west, and the safety of that extensive frontier, by the establishment of military posts—each and all of which objects, when completed, must essentially contribute to promote the great desideratum of Indian Civilization, than which there is no consideration of higher interest to engage the attention of the people and government of the United States.

It is, indeed, devoutly to be wished that no cause may occur to impede or suspend the prosecution of this truly important enterprize, which, under the judicious appointments, that now direct it, must speedily eventuate in great and general benefit to every section of the Union, improving the agriculture, and increasing the wealth of the interior—while it extends the commerce and navigation of the Atlantic states.

Trenton. September 20.

NEW-JERSEY STATE PRISON.

Yesterday about 2 P. M. four of the convicts confined in the penitentiary near this place, having released themselves from the cells wherein they were confined, three of them succeeded in scaling the prison-wall, undiscovered, and the fourth was on the point of getting over when observed by one of the assistant keepers. The alarm was given, and the fugitives were immediately pursued. Two were soon overtaken and surrendered—one, by the name of Roberts, was shot dead about a mile from the prison, and the fourth effected his escape.

One of the convicts that was overtaken and surrendered, was the same desperado who attempted last year to get possession of the arms belonging to the prison, and was then desperately wounded. Owing to the weakness occasioned by that wound, he was unable to keep up with the others.

The plan was, for the four, after they had scaled the wall, to go round to the front of the prison, enter the keeper's office, seize upon the arms, and effect a general jail delivery; but two of the four objecting to the undertaking, after they had got over, the project was given up, and each endeavored to make his escape.

PIRACY.

We regret to be obliged to add another instance to the catalogue of piracies committed in the gulf. Captain Johnson, of the schooner Sea Dog, bound from New-Orleans to this place, was boarded off Pascagoula bay by a boat with six men armed, who at first desired to purchase some provisions, but on being told he had none to dispose of, they proceeded to search and take such articles as they wished. As they were about to leave the vessel, their captain observed, that some of his men had been seized, that he stood in need of a stronger force, and that captain Johnson must furnish him with a man. This of course was declined. They then actually compelled one poor fellow to join their infamous combination, and made off. After they had been absent some time they were again discovered to be in pursuit, and captain J. being apprehensive that their object was to take possession of his vessel for a privateer, run her ashore, took to his boat, and abandoned her.

On returning to her, he found her hatches broken open and many light articles of value stolen. With some difficulty he succeeded in getting her off, and arrived here without further accident. All of these miscreants were known by him, having formerly been with him in the navy. They had heard of the loss of the Firebrand, and seemed to exult much in their prospects. We have no doubt they are a part of that infamous gang who so lately infested the Mississippi, committing robberies on vessels bound up and down the river. When their attacks become thus bold, it is high time they were hunted from their refuges and swept from the ocean. Our government cannot be distinctly aware of the great number of pirates who infest our coast, or we are sure it would take more effectual means to guard our commerce against their depredations.

FROM PORTUGAL.

The ship Alexander, capt. Swift, sailed from Lisbon the 19th July, and brought out his excellency Joze Roberto Triez Alvez de Mirandi, the newly appointed governor of Fayal and Pico, with his family and suite. Captain S. left at Fayal, Aug. 9th, the Portuguese ship Royal Princess, from Brazils. She had been chased in by one of Artigas' privateers, after an action in which the privateer was beat off, and the captain mortally wounded. Another Portuguese vessel which had been in company with the Royal Princess, was captured by the privateer. The U. S. sloop of war Erie, capt. Stockton, was cruising among the Azores, in quest of Patriot-privateers, who had robbed several American vessels. [Gazette.

Extract of a letter from Tortola.

His Majesty's sloop Fly, captain Tomkinson, arrived here yesterday morning from Barbadoes. You are aware that this officer has rendered himself a conspicuous character by the successful system of privateering he has pursued in those seas for some weeks past; having captured, I am credibly informed, no less than ten or twelve fishing boats, to the infinite advantage of his majesty's service.

This morning, your countryman, capt. Wm. R. Mason, and four seamen, were landed from the Fly, after a tedious and oppressive imprisonment of fifty-five days, during which time capt. Tomkinson vainly endeavored, in all our windward island coasts, to substantiate his allegation of piracy against them. In the course of several examinations which capt. Mason underwent, not the shadow of an evidence appeared to prove that he had at any period been on board a privateer, or any other armed vessel, except those of his & your country, during your wrangle with France in 1799. You may well imagine that the result of this business has very much chagrined our naval Bobadil, who had repeatedly threatened to have captain Mason hung, instead of which his innocence has been established even to the satisfaction of a British judge and a Scotch admiral. Captain Mason has, I am well informed, instituted a suit against captain Tomkinson for illegal imprisonment; for the success of which he has the united and best wishes of every honest man in the island, who, without a single exception, are irritated against the latter for his endeavors to excite a misunderstanding, in the person of one of her citizens, with a nation with whom it is our best interest, and let me add, our wisest policy, to preserve our present amicable relations.

LOSS OF THE FAWN.

Capt. Austin of ship Fawn, has arrived in town, and gives the following statement:—

Ship Fawn sailed from Mocha, 18th March in co. with brig Syren of Newburyport, and was subsequently joined by ships Emily, of Baltimore, and Isabella of Calcutta, in order to protection against pirates. On the night of the 20th of March, the Fawn struck on a shoal off the Abyssinian Coast, which was not laid down in the charts of either vessel. The Syren backed off without any apparent damage. The Fawn in being to leeward, in a very unfavorable position, tacked off but struck again while in the act of wearing, and every exertion to save her, proved abortive—a strong gale was blowing, and soon increased—her fore and mizen masts were cut away to prevent her bilging; but notwithstanding every exertion at the pumps, she filled. As soon as the gale subsided, her boats returned to Mocha, procured several Lighters, with which about one sixth of the cargo was saved with some stores, and part of her provisions.

The Fawn had sustained so much damage, it was impracticable to heave her off during the southern Monsoons, or to repair her in that inhospitable region, she was therefore abandoned. No lives were lost, and her crew, with the effects saved, embarked on board the Syren for Boston, Emily for Leghorn, and Isabella for Bombay, which vessels sailed from Mocha, on the 13th of April, under convoy of the Company's cruizers, Nautilus and Teignmouth.

The Arabian sea was much infested with pirates from the Persian Gulf who had committed horrid depredations. They cruized in long squadrons, and had landed an carried off an immense booty from Barbary on the African coast, about the last of November. Previous to the arrival of the Emily and Syren, a large Privateer vessel anchored in Mocha Roads, without the reach of the Batteries, & cut two valuable vessels out of the Roads, and was proceeding to sea with them. By request of the Governor, the Fawn assisted by the O'Cain, captain Barnham, and the Melantho of London, interfered to suppress her depredation. Unfortunately before they could be compelled to give up the prizes, one of them was sunk by the shot from the ships. She surrendered to the ships, and was given up to the Governor with her officers and crew, who were kept in irons, until liberated by the Imman, on giving security for future good behaviour. This vessel was in a small port above Mocha, when the convoy sailed.

The Fawn was more than five months procuring a cargo of coffee, it being very scarce and high.

The only survivor of the crew of the ship Essex, was at Mocha. He had been induced by fear or interest to become a musselman, and was engaged in a voyage for Hamid Acquil, who cut off the Essex.—His name was John Paul, and he did not appear to be unhappy, or to manifest much desire to return to his native country.

REVOLUTION IN TEXAS.

Extract of a letter from an officer of the republican Army in the Province of Texas to the editor of the Port-Gibson Correspondent—dated

"Immediately on the dispatching my last letter to you, Gen. Long headed our little party, and we proceeded to this place west of the Sabine about 70 miles. On our arrival we found that the traders alluded to in my last, were friendly to our cause, and we abandoned the pursuit.

"News had reached this place the day before our arrival, of an attack by 500, Camanche Indians, on the out posts of St. Antonio; the Indians, drove the Spaniards took from them one piece of cannon, and kept them in such constant check as to give time to the women and boys to drive off four or five hundred mules and horses.—The Indians, however, did not keep possession of their advantage, but retreated. The Spaniards then reinforced, followed & retook the spoil the Indians had possessed themselves of. The Camanche Indians and the Royalists are still at war, and likely to continue so for some time. From what we have learned from the Camanches, we have every thing to expect which we could hope from those Indians; and by the bye, our friendly intercourse with the different tribes of Indians, will be a sore annoyance to the Royalists. Several tribes of Indians trade with the merchants of this place, and are entirely devoted to the Republicans.

Gen. Long rested here one day, and returned to Camp Freeman, leaving me in command of this post with only 20 men.—Capt. Freeman sent me a reinforcement a few days after. A perfectly good understanding has existed between the citizens of this place and the men under my command.

"A few days ago, the commander in chief, (Gen. Long) rig Gen. Walker, Adj. Gen. Bigelow, Col. Robinson, the first aid of Gen. Long, and Col. Cook arrived at this place, with the greater part of the detachment left at Camp Freeman.

"Col. Cook has gone to Pacon Point, to bring on the troops, collected and collecting in that neighberhood. The adj. gen. and maj. Smith, a merchant of this place have gone to Galveston. Col. Robertson, with twenty-one or two horsemen, have gone on an important business near the Brasses. Several small parties have gone reconnoitering, and others are to start in a few days. Persons are to go to hold talks with the Indians. From all of these places you may expect to hear by my letters which will follow this. For these last six weeks the waters have been much higher than they have been known in this country for a great many years, which accounts for our not receiving any news from St. Augustine or Laberdio.

"Men are still arriving, and others are in motion, in various quarters. We are told that the price of land has already fallen on Red river, in consequence of the many persons intending to leave there, settle here and from authority which we cannot doubt, that five hundred men have left Philadelphia, well armed and provisioned, to join us. Others are said to be preparing in different parts of the eastern and middle states. We hope that our friends who intend to participate with us in every thing, the dangers as well as the profits, will be as speedy as possible in joining us; as it is certainly for the individual as well as the general good, to be organized as soon as possible.

"The council has been in session at this place, and have acted on some of the most important things—amongst other business, they have enacted, that each private who enters the service before the first of October, ensuing, shall receive ten sections of land as soon as the government is settled—those who arrive here after that time, will not receive as much. The land pay to officers is not yet acted on, but will be as soon as council is again in session. The privates receive 13 dols. per month, the corporals 16 dols and the sergeants 20 dols per month. The captains receive 75 dols. per month, first Lieutenants 60 dols. second 50 dols. and third Lieutenants 40 per month. The salaries of the higher officers are in proportion.

"The 'Texas Republican,' will be commenced in two weeks, and you are solicited to exchange. Any of your citizens who wish to take the paper, can have it by sending their names.

"As we advance in the country, the better the soil and water are—the air is salubrious, and I think a healthier spot than this, I never saw.

"I cannot in justice to the troops at this place, close this letter, without remarking, that the good order and harmony amongst them surpasses any troops even of the U. S.! Strangers arriving here, are astonished at the good and orderly conduct of our corps; particularly when they look back at the conduct of the former army, and the want of unanimity amongst them. This contrast between the two armies is great. Plundering is not permitted on any account."

From a late London Paper.

Extract of a letter from Messina, dated 23d June, 1819.

"The sales of British manufactures have received a serious check from the late custom-house regulations; although entitled to redress, we do not expect it from our own ministry. The late treaty clearly expresses that the tariff in force in 1816 shall be the basis of calculation; but an old one of 1802, which was not used for several years, is now enforced, and the whole treaty is so loosely expressed that the letter is perverted into a complete contradiction of its spirit. It does not require much talent to understand, for a British statesman of the present school; it is only to give up every thing and pay subsidies with a good grace, without value received or expected, and never to require the liquidation of debts due. In fact, to receive the law from any quarter, where he ought to give it, and not to tell disagreeable truths lest it should interrupt harmony."

The hats of the Dandies at Paris are broad-brimmed, like those of the Quakers in England, or, rather, after the fashion of the Oliver Cromwell hat.

At one of the watering places the churchwardens are advertising for a curate,—"where the duty is not heavy"—at the same time adding, that the office of "master of the ceremonies" is vacant, should the gentleman be able to officiate in that department.

After the abdication of Bonaparte, in 1814, it was observed, at a fashionable party in Paris, that things were to be restored to the state in which they were in 1788.—"Oh! I am delighted to hear that" exclaimed a lady, who was no longer in the bloom of youth, "for then I shall be only 18 years of age."

DUEL.—A duel took place on Wednesday morning last, at the back of the premises at Clonliffe, near Dublin, between Mr. Jones, the patentee of the theatre, and George Pardy, Esq. After exchanging shots, the seconds, Mr. Day and Mr. Whaley, interfered, and an accommodation followed.

MANSION HOUSE.—Yesterday the Lord Mayor was again engaged for a considerable time in his private room, hearing a further elucidation of circumstances relative to the late proceedings at Smithfield, particularly as to the placarding and distribution of some bills which are said to be of a seditious nature. Two persons were some nights since found in the act of posting these bills and were taken into custody—Nothing criminal, however, appearing against them, upon the first private examination, they were discharged, promising at the same time to appear again when called upon.

During the severe storm of thunder and lightning last week, at Bristol, a mass of caterpillars fell as if from the clouds into a garden there, and were shovelled away by bushels.

Extract from Noah's Travels in Barbary.

MOORISH MAGNANIMITY.

During the war in the Peninsula, transports and other government vessels were frequently sent from Gibraltar to Tangier; but to prevent quarantine, these vessels had no connection with the shore: and strict orders were given to permit no Moor to come on board. A sloop of war, arriving from Cadiz, anchored in the bay, and the captain of the port, an athletic man, of fine feelings and good character, and perfectly conversant with the English and Spanish languages, got into his skiff, and paddled towards the vessel. He got under the stern, and before he was observed, he reached the deck. The lieut. on watch, enraged at the violation of orders, and the fear of quarantine, in a moment of forgetfulness, seized a rope and very severely beat the Moor, who got into his skiff and returned to the port. He made no complaint—told no one of the circumstance; altho' a greater outrage cannot be offered by a christian to a Mussulman, he watched an opportunity to retaliate. The lieut. was compelled to land on business; he returned to the beach at dusk; the gates of the town were shut; no boat was ready to receive him: the wind drowned his voice; he walked the beach in agitation, when the captain of the port accosted him, and on learning his situation, prepared his skiff, and rowed him to his vessel. "You may remember, sir," said he, "when in the execution of the duties of my office, I landed on the deck of this ship, you disgraced me by beating me with a rope—and without provocation: I could have hurled you into the sea from my skiff, and thus have taken satisfaction; but you entrusted yourself to me, and I guarantee your safety—this, sir," said he, as he pushed off from the vessel, "is the vengeance of a Moor."

NORTH WESTERN VIEWS.

From a "Journal of the march of the 5th regiment, in June, 1819, from Green Bay to Prairie du Chien," by an officer of that regiment.

Extracted for the National Intelligencer.

"The Fox River at the Portage, is about 15 yards wide, 7 or 8 feet deep, and running from a southern direction. Its source is said to be about 9 miles south of the Portage, in a small Lake; the intermediate country appearing to be prairie interspersed with large clumps of oaks, looking like islands, studding an immense sea of verdure. Indeed it may be more than mere fancy, that such has once been their real character. The horizon is every where skirted with hills, which may have been the ancient barriers of a great lake, drained off by the two avenues of the Fox and Ouisconsin Rivers, & these wooded spots were doubtless islands in its bosom. In standing on a knoll on the right bank of the Fox River, and looking towards the W. and S. W. the eye looks over a prairie of a mile and a half or more in width, the hither part of which is seamed by the meanders of the Fox River, over which, in a more westerly direction, a point of elevated land is seen protruding itself from a north-westerly direction, into the prairie, crowned with a few scattered and stunted oaks. To the S. E. of this point, about half a mile distant, stands one of those groves of oak openings described above; through the vista formed by these two objects a range of dark forest is seen, above whose sombre shade undulates the bolder but fainter outlines of elevated hills, which terminates the prospect. The Ouisconsin runs on the east side of the forest, but it is not visible from this point of view. The route of the Portage is about S. S. W. over the marshy prairie, 2500 yards long, low, and generally wet. Boats and baggage are now altogether taken over by this route.

There is another route leading over the point of land above described, which is 2 3-4 miles long. The Frenchman's house who keeps the Portage, is on this route; he has four or five teams adapted to the transportation of baggage and boats. The first time we went across the Portage, we took, by mistake, the longest route.—When on the apex of the point, the eye embraced a view of the two rivers, and it was not without feelings of enthusiasm and awe that one contemplated the singular and interesting scene. Two rivers apparently divided by no barrier, running nearly parallel with each other for several miles, diametrically opposite in their courses, without any visible cause for such a contrariety, present a parodoxical phenomenon, which the mind is unable to reconcile with physical rules: while the recollection of their widely differing destinations mingles a sentiment of wonder with its perplexity. The imagination, in its divergent flight, hovers over the extremes of the St. Lawrence and the Mississippi, and sees a girdle of water encircling the U. States, severed only by the narrow strip of land on which he stands and which leave it an immense peninsula. The features of such a scene would seem to claim something bold and striking, but it is only an association of ideas which give any grandeur or interest to the Portage.—Nature is there in her quiescent state; and all her productions appear to have been the result of some of her slowest and most indolent operations. Prairies and hills which have been left by the subsiding waters, and which by their monotony and nakedness would appear still to ask the friendly covering of their ancient element.

"In this point of elevated land there are two rather singular excavations or reservoirs, one of which is 6 or 700 yards in diameter, and 120 or 30 feet deep. The other about half its size. They have no visible outlet and are as regular in their form, as if they had been dug by the art of man. They, each of them, contain a remnant of water, embosomed and imprisoned there, in the heart of the country, like a few proud drops which never descend in tribute to the distant ocean.

"It is said that, in very wet seasons, boats have passed from one river to the other by water. There are a number of little ravines or sloughs, which intersect the marsh on which the Portage passes, and it is possible that a very light boat may have been pushed from one into the other river; and there is a small river which empties into the Ouisconsin below, which has its source very near that of the Fox, by which boats have sometime passed, with little or no portage, but these are extraordinary facilities, and even if they existed more frequently, as they would not accommodate the kind of trade which is carried on thro' this country, would not be deemed of any importance. The practicability of a canal has often been the subject of speculation.—The interjacent marsh of the two rivers is so level and soft, as to present but few apparent difficulties to the accomplishment of such a project, and it is perhaps more than probable that, if a trench were made, it would be sufficiently fed by one of the two rivers. If, however, my conjecture, as to the relative height of the two rivers, be correct, such an attempt would result in consequences worse than useless. By a cursory survey of the ground, the Ouisconsin appeared to be the lowest. If such be the fact, were a channel cut, to connect the two streams, the Fox river would naturally turn all its current into the Ouisconsin, and deduct so much from the waters of that river below. Such a result might be destructive to a navigation, which has now been in use for more than a century, and which, with all its obstructions, is of vast importance to the interior."

Alex'a. Common Council.

September 22, 1819.

The Council resumed the consideration of the bill, entitled "an act to amend the several acts concerning the Poor-house & Work-house," which was read a second time, and upon motion, read a third time and passed by Ayes & Noes—as follows:

Ayes—Messrs. Kinsey, Keene, Smith, J. C. Vowell, Keith, Bryan, Ramsay, T. Vowell, Robinson, Rhodes, Swift.

Noes—Messrs. Neale, Mandeville and Longden.

The Council resumed the consideration of the bill, entitled "an act for the issuing of due bills in the name of the corporation of Alexandria, in exchange for an equal number to be cancelled," which was read a second time, and the blanks being filled, it was read a third time and passed.

Hill and Dale, April 20.

Galston for Sale.

THIS elegant estate is situated on the Potomac, 16 miles below Alexandria—it is bounded on three sides by the Potomac and Pohick creek, and contains nearly 3,000 acres of land, level and fertile, to which are attached six shad and herring fisheries, two of which command the river channel. This land will be laid off in four tracts, so as to have one or more fisheries to each; these tracts will be again divided if requisite. The estate is level and beautifully situated, very fertile, and remarkably healthy. Plaister acts with an effect equal to that of any part of Virginia or Pennsylvania.—I have used 500 bushels in twelve months, and such is its beneficial operation, that were I to keep this land I should considerably increase the quantity. A manufacturing mill is distant about two miles, on a stream navigable for vessels carrying 1200 bushels of wheat, where the Baltimore and Dist. of Columbia prices are given for grain: being bounded on 3 sides by water, a small extent only of fence is necessary to inclose the whole: it would be admirably adapted to grazing. The improvements are a large and very substantial brick mansion, 40 by 70 feet, with every necessary outhouse, three commodious barns, houses for Negroes, and fish houses at each of the fisheries. 120,000 bricks and 1000 bushels of lime are just burnt on the premises. There is a considerable extent of live fence, both useful and ornamental, two orchards of well selected apples and peach, besides an abundance of other choice fruit. More than 150 acres are in clover, 200 in corn, and land is in preparation for sowing 250 bushels of small grain. Any quantity of hay can be cut from the low grounds, some of which (and all might,) have been reclaimed at a trifling expense. The river and creeks, abound with wild fowl, particularly canvass backs, the woods with deer and a variety of other game. Mules, cattle, highly improved sheep, farming utensels and household furniture can be had. The terms of sale will be accommodating. Property in any of the cities, negroes, bank stock, western lands, or lands near the Ridge, will be taken in payment.—Letters must be addressed to me at Pohick Church, Fairfax county, Virginia.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment. may 25

PROSPECTUS

Of a new periodical work to be published in the city of Washington, entitled the

Washington Theological REPERTORY.

EDITORS, { Rev. Wm Hawley, Washington,
Rev. Wm. H. Wilmer, Alexandria,
Rev. Oliver Norris, Alexandria,
Rev. Reuel Keith, Georgetown.

Assisted by several other literary gentlemen of the Protestant Episcopal Church.

IF any apology were necessary for this undertaking, it may be found in the fact, that there is no publication on a similar plan, in all that section of our country lying south of New-York, and but one in the whole of the United States. It has been matter of equal surprize and regret, that the Episcopal Church should be so far behind other Christian denominations, in similar efforts to disseminate the principles of religion and piety. At a period like the present, when the Lord is preparing his way on earth, by the most remarkable efforts of human agency, and the most wonderful operations of his providence and grace—when we perceive in every part of Christendom, a praise-worthy emulation to share in the glorious work of filling the earth with the knowledge of the only true God, and his Son Jesus Christ; it would seem criminal for any to withhold their exertions, however feeble, in the great enterprize of human happiness and salvation. The editors have, therefore, felt it their duty to make this humble effort to supply this acknowledged deficiency on the part of the church in this section of the country, and to bear their share in the common exertions of Christians to promote the Redeemer's Kingdom. And having obtained the services of a gentleman, in whose talents and principles they have confidence, whose time will be wholly devoted to the superintendence of the work, they feel encouraged to solicit the patronage of the public.

The publication will be conducted under the immediate inspection and control of the above named editors, who will form a committee to review every article intended for publication. The principles upon which it will be conducted are those of the bible, as illustrated in the articles, Liturgy and Homilies of the Protestant Episcopal Church. As members of this church the editors will feel bound to support the Apostolical character of her institutions, the pious tendency of her rites and ceremonies, and the evangelical nature of her doctrines. But in these, and all other discussions, they hope never to loose sight of that great law of charity which teaches us to "preserve the unity of the spirit in the bond of peace."

Acting upon those catholic principles, so long and so successively pursued by "The Christian Observer," their chief object will be to inculcate sound theological knowledge, and to delineate and recommend pure and vital religion. They trust therefore, that while the members of every Christian denomination may find something edifying and instructive, none will discover any just cause for offence in the pages of this work. General subjects of biblical criticism, practical illustrations of scriptural truth, the biography of illustrious persons, evidences of the truth of revelation, essays on the history and polity of the church, reviews of interesting publications, religious, literary and philosophical intelligence—in short, whatever is connected with the promotion of religion, humanity and literature, will find a place in this repository.

The testimony of experience supersedes the necessity of dwelling on the advantages of a periodical publication on the plan proposed. Its obvious tendency will be to render the various departments of religious knowledge more easy and accessible, and give a more ready currency and wider circulation, to those great truths which involve the present welfare and future destiny of man.

It will tend powerfully to stimulate the exertions of the editors, and console them under the difficulties attendant on the prosecution of this work, amidst many other avocations, should it prove the means under the blessing of God, of enriching any of its readers with the saving knowledge of Christ, and prepare them for a participation in the felicity and glory of his heavenly kingdom. With this hope they commit it into his hands, and confidently solicit their brethren of the clergy and laity to assist them in carrying into effect the objects of the undertaking.

TERMS OF THE WORK.

A volume of the Repertory shall consist of twelve numbers, of which one shall be published on the first day of every month, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, stitched in blue, and attended with a table of contents.

The paper used in the work shall be good, and the typography executed with the greatest care.

The price of a volume is two dollars, payable in advance; to such as omit the advance, two dollars and fifty cents

It is designed to enlarge the size of the work, without increasing the price, as soon as one thousand subscribers shall be obtained.

Communications and remittances may be directed to any of the editors, post paid.

Any person becoming responsible for five subscribers, shall receive a sixth copy gratis.

The first number may be expected in the month of July. June 26
